

THE PORTICO PALLADIO BENCH

The Portico Palladio Bench is perfect for museum galleries, exhibition spaces, reception areas, hallways and houses. This solid, embracing and generous bench for three features a straight back with a deep seat leaving room for a cushion. In a public space it is a seat that will encourage interaction and add to the ambience.

Made to order by one of Scotland's most reputable architectural and bespoke joinery companies, the design combines innovative use of materials with technology and traditional craftsmanship.

The panels utilise the strength, stability and size of high quality Birch plywood, and though machine cut to exact specifications the panels still require meticulous hand finishing. These are complimented by the use of beautiful Tulip wood (poplar) framing.

Traditional mortise and tenon joints are used to build the body around a reinforced base giving it a strong, robust construction designed to withstand heavy traffic.
